

Wisconsin Internet Crimes Against Children (ICAC) Task Force

The Wisconsin ICAC Task Force counters the threat of offenders using the Internet or other online technology to sexually exploit children.

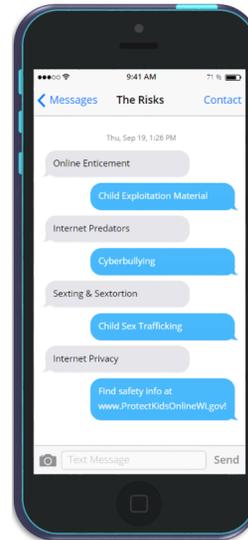

The task force is comprised of Wisconsin Department of Justice personnel and law enforcement departments from around the state. The task force serves as a source of prevention, education, and investigative expertise to provide assistance to parents, teachers, law enforcement, and others working on child victimization issues since 1999.

What We Do

Since the inception of NCMEC's CyberTipline, Wisconsin ICAC has received over 10,000 CyberTips regarding the possible online exploitation of children.

The Wisconsin ICAC Task Force investigates the information received from these CyberTips, while also patrolling the Internet for evidence associated with the production, distribution, and possession of child exploitation materials.

With assistance from our Examiners in the Digital Forensics Unit, Wisconsin ICAC is able to search the most sophisticated devices and technology for evidence. Prosecutors also work diligently to respond to and prosecute ICAC cases.

All members of the Wisconsin ICAC Task Force provide online safety and prevention messages to children and communities. Wisconsin ICAC is committed to Protecting Kids Online! Help by sharing this information with someone you know.
