Office of Open Government Reports Its Mid-Year Performance Statistics for 2020

MADISON, Wis. - In an effort to continue operating transparently and ensure accountability, the Office of Open Government today reported its mid-year performance statistics for January through June 2020.

Completed Activities

- Responded to 345 public records requests (approximately 57 per month);
- Released public records reports, video, and audio files related to 7 officer-involved critical incidents;
- Responded to 295 inquiries on its Public Records/Open Meetings Help Line (PROM), which is a record mid-year number since the Office's inception in 2015. During COVID-19, the office also responded to record-breaking numbers of calls for two consecutive months (88 calls answered in March, 77 calls answered in April), a large majority of which were related to open meetings during COVID-19;
- Issued 2 advisories and other website guidance related to open meetings during COVID-19;
- Issued 27 letters providing guidance concerning open government; and
- Provided 6 trainings and participated in educational presentations to governmental agencies and other outside groups on open government matters.

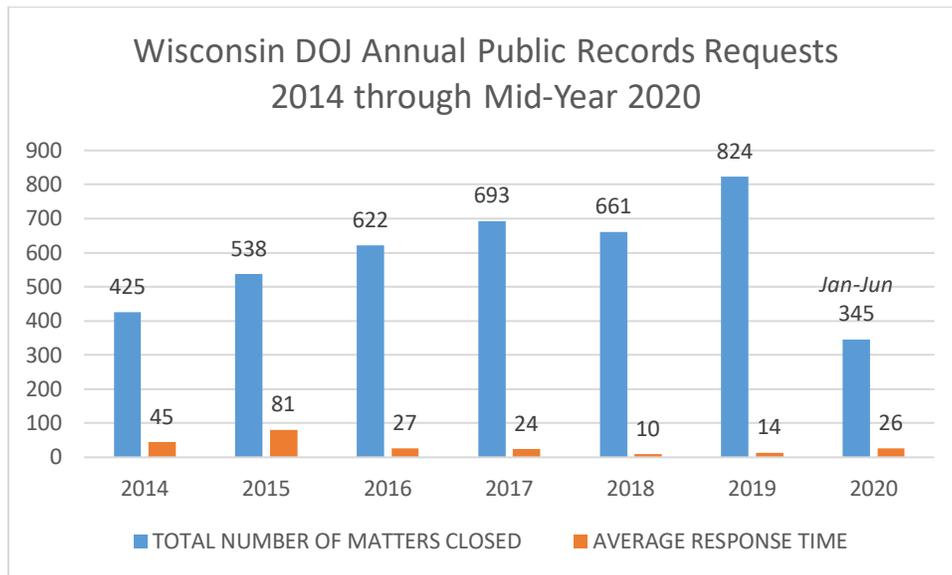

Response Times for Public Records Requests

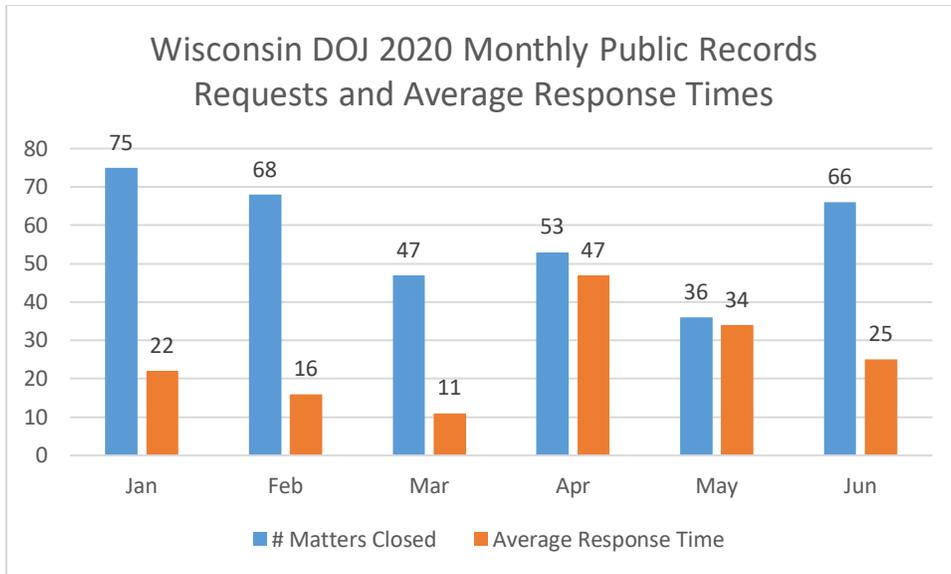

According to the Wisconsin Public Records Law Compliance Guide, "DOJ policy is that 10 working days is generally a reasonable time for responding to a simple [public records] request for a limited number of easily identifiable records."

Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the entire OOG office staff and most DOJ personnel transitioned to remote working environments. Even so, the office continues to maintain a large percentage of responses fulfilled within this 10-working-day guideline while at the same time responding to a high volume of requests. During the first six months of 2020, the office:

- Responded to approximately 72% of public records requests within the 10-working-day guideline.
- Responded to 51% of all requests in 3 calendar days or less and responded to 65% of all requests in 7 calendar days or less.
- Average response time for all responses was 26 calendar days, which includes those that were broader in scope or required time-intensive review.

As seen in the two charts below, the office responded to 345 public records requests in the first six months of 2020, a large number of which were complex and required time-intensive review. The office continues to improve response times during the COVID-19 pandemic while at the same time responding to a high volume of requests.

Continuing Efforts

In 2020, the office also increased the public’s access to public records and will continue to do so by posting the following information on its website:

- A snapshot of public records requests pending on Monday of each week;
- The average monthly response time for public records requests;
- Responses to citizen correspondence, posted quarterly;
- Specific responses to public records requests that may be of particular public interest or may be the subject of multiple requests for the same records;
- Records related to Officer-Involved Critical Incidents;
- OOG’s internal policies and procedures; and,
- “Ask the OOG” columns for frequently asked questions (FAQ’s).

The office reports directly to the Office of Attorney General. The office is headed by Assistant Attorney General Paul Ferguson, and is supported by Assistant Attorney General Sarah Larson, two paralegals, one program and policy analyst, and several other attorneys and DCI employees within DOJ who regularly interact with the office.
